ALLEGRIA

THE TRIBE'S WINE

The wine that expresses, more than any other, our exceptional volcanic terroir.

THE WINE'S STYLE

A great deal of elegance in this wine, distinguished by its black fruit aromas and peppery notes.

On the palate, Syrah leads the way with its violet notes and a marked minerality.

The tannins are silky and provide magnificent length.

THE LITTLE EXTRAS OF THE VINIFICATION

By blending wines aged in barrels and in tanks, this cuvée gains in complexity. Tank-aged wine brings more fruit and aromatic freshness. Barrel-aged wine is longer, more structured, marked by spices and peppery aromas.

The blend brings these two distinct aromatic profiles together to create a balanced wine with excellent ageing potential.

THE DETAIL WE LOVE

Located in the commune of Caux, north of the small town of Pézenas, the Allegria vineyard is perched on the first hills of the Haut Languedoc, on the slopes of an ancient strombolian volcano, 1.3 million years old.

Situated at the southern end of the volcanic fault running from the Massif Central to Cap d'Agde, the Pézenas appellation owes its exceptional character to the volcanic origin of its soils, which contribute both to the aromatic balance and the ageing potential of its wines.
